Product: H03-SCALE-PROD-CHECK

Knowledge package: H03-KP-ORG001-001

Removal checklist

[] Start by searching a people-search site for your name or other identifying information such as a phone number or address.

[] When you find a report about yourself, locate the site's opt-out or removal instructions and follow them.

[] Repeat the opt-out process across other relevant people-search sites; doing this one by one can be time-consuming.

Follow-up checklist

[] Periodically recheck people-search sites and submit new opt-out requests if your information reappears.

[] Opting out of people-search sites does not delete information from public records, so the workflow reduces exposure rather than guaranteeing total deletion.

[] Consumers can perform people-search opt-outs themselves for free or pay a service to perform the work on their behalf.
