A bounded repeatable workflow for reducing exposed personal information

Product: H03-PROD-ORG001-001

Knowledge package: H03-KP-ORG001-001

1. Find your exposed listing

1. Search the people-search site for your name, phone number, or address and open the listing that appears to describe you.

2. Submit the opt-out

1. Use the site's opt-out or removal instructions for the listing you found and complete the requested steps.

3. Repeat across sites

1. Move to the next relevant people-search site and repeat the same search-and-opt-out workflow.

4. Recheck periodically

[] Schedule a periodic recheck and submit another opt-out request if your information appears again.

5. Know the limits

Note: Treat this as exposure reduction, not total erasure: public records may still remain available.

DIY opt-outs can be done for free; a paid service is an alternative if you prefer to delegate the repeated work.
